SPORTING CLAY SHOOTING at the National Shooting Complex

Experience the sport of sporting clays, often referred to as “golf with a shotgun” at the National Shooting Complex, located along the edge of the beautiful Texas Hill Country. Your destination is 671 acres of peaceful rolling hills and picturesque countryside known as one of the most complete sport shooting and recreational facilities in the world, home to the National Shooting Sports Association Museum and Hall of Fame.

Sporting clays is the closest thing to actual field shooting of all shotgun sports and the courses are designed to simulate the hunting of ducks, pheasants, and even rabbits. Sporting clays is typically shot in squads of two to six people and played over a course of 10 to 15 shooting stations laid around fields. Like golf courses, no two sporting clays courses are alike, and terrain and background have a lot to do with how targets are presented. Since no two courses are alike, shooters travel to different courses to experience variety. Guests will receive a full instruction and safety training session prior to the activity as well as all equipment and ammunition needed to experience one of Texas’ favorite sports.
